General principles

RePEc (Research Papers in Economics) is a collaborative effort of hundreds of volunteers in 82 countries to enhance the dissemination of research in Economics and related sciences. The heart of the project is a decentralized bibliographic database of working papers, journal articles, books, books chapters and software components, all maintained by volunteers. The collected data is then used in various services as described below.

So far, over 1,600 archives from 81 countries have contributed about 1.4 million research pieces from 1,800 journals and 3,800 working paper series. Over 35,000 authors have registered and 70,000 email subscriptions are served every week. See below on how you can be part of this initiative.

RePEc services

The following are services that use \(principle\) and contribute RePEc data. They also report usage statistics that can be used towards the RePEc rankings.

	RePEc Author Service	Author registration and maintenance of a profile on RePEc.
	Munich Personal RePEc Archive	Authors in institutions lacking a participating RePEc archive can submit their papers to MPRA and get them included in the RePEc database.
	IDEAS	The complete RePEc database at your disposal. Browse or search it all.
	EconPapers	Economics at your fingertips. EconPapers provides access to all of RePEc. Browsing and searching available.
	RePEc Genealogy	Academic family tree for economics.
	RePEc Biblio	Hand-selected bibliography of articles and papers in economics.
	EconAcademics.org	Blog aggregator for discussion about economics research.
	NEP	New Economics Papers is a free email notification service for new downloadable working papers from over 90 specific fields. Archives are also available.
	EDIRC	Directory of Economics institutions, with links to their members and publications listed on RePEc
	RePEc Plagiarism Committee	An effort to curtail plagiarism of RePEc contents.
	LogEc	Detailed download and access statistics for RePEc items and authors.
	CitEc	Citation analysis from items in the RePEc database.
	Collec	Rankings by co-authorship centrality for authors registered in the RePEc Author Service.
	SPZ	An online workplace for researchers, tutors and students within the RePEc information space.
	Socionet	A Russian (and Russian language) implementation of the RePEc method and database as the collective information environment for the social sciences. Database customization and filtration by a "personal information robot".

Financial strategies for minimizing corporate income taxes under Brazil's new global tax systemStephen T. Limberg^I; John R. Robison^{II}; Michael S. Schadewald^{III}^IVisiting; Professor, Fundação Getúlio Vargas. Professor, The University of Texas, Austin.E-mail: limberg@mail.utexas.edu^{II}Professor, The University of Texas, Austin^{III}Associate Professor, University of Wisconsin, MilwaukeeABSTRACT

In 1996, Brazil adopted a worldwide income tax system for corporations. This system represents a fundamental change in how the Brazilian government treats multinational transactions and the tax minimizing strategies relevant to businesses. In this article, we describe the conceptual basis for worldwide tax systems and the problem of double taxation that they create. Responses to double taxation by both the governments and the private sector are considered. Namely, the imperfect mechanisms developed by Brazil and other countries for mitigating double taxation are analyzed. We ultimately focus on the strategies that companies utilize in order not only to avoid double taxation, but also to take advantage of tax havens.

Key words: financial strategies, foreign tax credit, international tax, tax minimization, worldwide income taxes system.RESUMO

Em 1996, o Brasil adotou um sistema internacional de impostos de renda para empresas. Este sistema representa uma mudança fundamental em como o governo brasileiro trata as transações internacionais e as estratégias para minimizar os impostos para as empresas. Neste artigo, descrevemos as bases conceituais para um sistema internacional de impostos e o problema causado pela criação de uma dupla taxação. As reações do governo e da iniciativa privada à dupla taxação são consideradas. Também são analisados os mecanismos imperfeitos desenvolvidos no Brasil e em outros países para atenuação da taxação dupla. Finalmente, abordamos as estratégias utilizadas pelas empresas para não apenas evitar a dupla taxação como também ter as vantagens dos paraísos fiscais.

Palavras-chave: estratégias financeiras, taxas de crédito estrangeiras, taxas internacionais, redução de impostos, sistema internacional de impostos de renda.Services on Demand

Abstract

According to its proponents, open source style software development has the capacity to compete successfully, and perhaps in many cases displace, traditional commercial development methods. In order to begin investigating such claims, we examine the development process of a major open source application, the Apache web server. By using email archives of source code change history and problem reports we quantify aspects of developer participation, core team size, code ownership, productivity, defect density, and problem resolution interval for this OSS project. This analysis reveals a unique process, which performs well on important measures. We conclude that hybrid forms of development that borrow the most effective techniques from both the OSS and commercial worlds may lead to high performance software processes.

Much of the software for the infrastructure of the internet, including the well known bind, Apache, and sendmail programs, were also developed in this fashion. The Apache server (the OSS software un...
